Language Arts:

It was all about the letter "b", butterflies, and bugs this week. The cursive letter "b" is a little too much like the cursive letter "l", so we need to make sure to practice saying the language of instruction when writing the letters. Please make sure to do this at home when practicing cursive letter writing. We had a lot of fun learning about caterpillars and butterflies making a flip book sequencing the life cycle of a butterfly, completing activities after reading the story of The Very Hungry Caterpillar, and completing a book comparing butterflies to us. Some special visitors also arrived last week. Hopefully the caterpillars will soon climb to the top of the container to make their chrysalis, and then not long after they will turn into beautiful butterflies. Stay tuned for updates!

Math:

We practiced subtraction using butterflies and cubes. The children also had some practice measuring. Measuring with rulers is still causing all of us a little difficulty, so please practice measuring at home. We also practiced telling time to the hour using the book, The Grouchy Ladybug. We will continue to practice these skills until the end of the school year - which is not too many days away.

Other Activities:

We skipped center time this week to do catch up on some other things. We did earn extra recess at the end of the week!
